Exciting News As DWC Brands Their PVCU Sliding Sash Window.

Tom Givans Managing Director of Dunganon Windows is pushing the way forward to brand the window that they have been manufacturing for over 10 years.

“It is the start of a new era for us” says Tom. “As we branch out to formally name a window that has for years been one of the most popular to both the trade and domestic market. I feel that having a recognised name will help our trade customers with an easier sell”.

We will continue to report on our re-branding and will contact you on the new launch.

CILL DRIP TRIM

Exclusive to eurosash the new cill drip trim is now available.

Our design team are always looking into new forward thinking ideas which will enhance the vertical sliding sash window. After months on the drawing board it's now a reality, meeting the demands of our consumers.

This drip trim is available in all our colours, white, light oak, rosewood, cream grain, white grain and black grain.

A New Look for Exhibits

Dungannon Windows launched its new look with the branded eurosash window this February at the Self Build Show in Belfast. The new exhibit stand was a great success at this show and will be on view at our upcoming show Better Homes which is on the 3rd – 5th May at the National Show Centre Dublin.

Website under construction

DWC are currently redeveloping their website.

The existing website www.dungannonwindows.co.uk is still operational and has a wealth of information on our products.

The website which will be up and running later this year will be more interactive and will be updated regularly with news regarding new products.

Marketing Material

Due to popular demand by our trade customers DWC are currently working on new marketing materials.

Included are leaflets and postcards which will have the eurosash brand name on it, the DWC name will be omitted, instead there will be a space for your company contact details.

These products will be available from May and will be a useful selling tool to many especially if displayed in showrooms or handed to customers on site.

If you would like to order some for your company, please contact us.
